The Honorable Jerry MacArthur Hultin speaks with Seabees from NMCB-3 while visiting NavSta, Rota..

UnderSecNav Hultin visits Rota Naval Station

JOSN Justin Takasawa

The Under Secretary of the Navy, the Honorable Jerry MacArthur Hultin, recently visited Naval Station Rota, beginning his tour of Europe.

Hultin was traveling to make himself known to servicemembers throughout Europe and to address quality of life issues.

"... we have a great working relationship here with Spain"

The 12-hour tour of the base took Hultin to Camp Mitchell where he spoke with Seabees, and to Port Operations where he discussed spouse-employment issues with the Sailors.

Hultin then traveled to Reflections and was given a brief tour of NSGA before stopping for lunch.

"I'm very impressed," said Hultin. "It's clear that we have a great working relationship here with Spain," he said.

Hultin plans to address the quality of life issues that he discussed with Rota Sailors once he returns to Washington. Hultin also discussed the Navy's future.

"I think that you'll see in the future Navy a change in our view of the value of the young enlisted person. We're trying to end the mentality that labor's free but rather say that you're worth a lot," Hultin said.

Hultin also commented on the not-so-distant future and spoke about the Y2K issue.

"I'm the guy they hang if it doesn't go right," he joked. "Actually we've got things under good control. We've probably spent three billion dollars," he said. "Needless to say, the Navy's ready and the Marine Corps is ready."

Throughout his tour of Naval Station Rota, Hultin brought up the issue of 'one mistake' with local Sailors.

PRT changes ahead

A complete revision to the physical readiness program becomes effective Jan 1, 2000, which will outline policies and procedures that lay the foundation for creation of a new fitness culture for the Navy.

Changes under the new program include:

a. Current PRT moratorium recently announced ends on Dec. 31, 1999.

Members with three or more failures in a four-year period will carry no more than the two most recent failures into the post-moratorium period. Following moratorium, an accumulation of three PRT failures in a four-year period will result in separation at EAOS, and those members will not be advanced. Members pending such separation who successfully pass three consecutive PRTs will be allowed to reenlist and con-

Navy enhances voluntary education for Sailors

The Chief of Naval Education and Training (CNET) implemented an enhanced Navy-wide voluntary education program Oct. 1, which will streamline and expand the opportunity for Sailors to pursue college degrees during their Navy careers. The program will build on the academic credit Sailors earn for Navy training and on-the-job work experience.

Called the Navy College Program (NCP), the program serves as the umbrella for the current components of voluntary education, and adds several new features. NCP integrates all components into a single system and will be introduced in three phases over the next year.

"In the past, young people joined the Navy to get money to go to college after their service," Chief of Naval Operations ADM Jay L. Johnson said. "Now, 'This is a powerful notion, and one that will benefit the Sailor, the Navy and the nation. It's going to be a wonderful homerun for the Navy and we're very excited about it.'"

"As the Navy College Program is phased in over the coming year, we believe it will help provide focus for our Sailors who want to get a college degree on their own time, at their own pace both ashore and while they're deployed," said CNET VADM John Craine.

According to Deputy Director of Naval Training, Dr. Allen Zeman, "The Navy College Program is a systemization of a lot of existing programs. It takes all the pieces of old proon training evaluated by Oct. 1, 2000.

Another unique aspect of the NCP is the rating-specific roadmap. Rating-specific roadmaps outline the ACE recommended college credit for Navy training and rating-related work experience across a Navy career. This roadmap will assist Sailors in making informed choices on their selection of a college degree program. Rating roadmaps are available on the NCP web site and from local Navy College Offices.

In phase two (January 2000 - Sep. 30, 2000) Sailors will be able to access, view and download copies of their transcript.

CNE's Holiday Message: Let's take care of our shipmates

As we approach the holiday season, I want to thank each of you for your dedicated service to our nation and Navy. NAVEUR Sailors and Marines have been extremely busy this past year responding to the full spectrum of operational requirements. Your readiness, willingness, and commitment under extremely difficult circumstances highlight your continued outstanding service to a grateful nation. You can be justifiably proud of your many accomplishments.

Perhaps we now face circumstances that are every bit as difficult. During the holidays, unfortunately, many of our Sailors and Marines become more vulnerable to stress, anxiety, depression, loneliness, over-spending, and alcohol abuse. The potential is there for each of us to experience one or all of these emotions during the days ahead.

As supervisors and shipmates, you must recognize the warning signs and pay close attention to the behavior of your Sailors and Marines. The warning signs are clear: sudden decline in performance, withdrawal, disorientation, mood shifts, aggressiveness, activities are done alone, increase in substance abuse, or over-spending. All of us must take action, confront the issues, and be direct to defuse the problem and make prompt referrals.

Fortunately, we are staffed by multidisciplinary teams of highly skilled professionals with experience in the areas of physical, mental, social, legal and spiritual wellbeing.

I never hesitate to refer shipmates I'm concerned about to our doctors, chaplains, lawyers, Family Service Center, DAPA, and CAAC counselors. A wise leader will form a strategic partnership with them and use their expertise.

Secondly, I urge all division officers to reread your division officer's guide; for CPO's, review your leadership training continuum, and for LPO's, review your leading petty officer indoctrination notes.

Be a wise leader - know your people, identify at-risk people, show you care, be available, know the warning signs, and know and use the chain of command and our many available resources.

The operational tempo will continue to be intensive. However, we must remain vigilant, especially during this holiday period, in the care of our Sailors and Marines. Chaplains, medical, and Family Service counselors are well integrated throughout the theater and remain positive resources in the care of our people. Let us set a new record for safety and well being this holiday season that ends with our Navy and Marine Corps family together, productive and happy in the New Year.

"I think that we've gone too far and now we're into a 'one mistake' mentality where if you made any mistakes, you were out. Now we've put out the word that says 'we're all human and we all make mistakes'," he said.

Hultin added that overcoming mistakes is a mark in a sailor's favor rather than against it.

Talking about mistakes, Hultin pointed out that more than 35,000 missions were flown in Kosovo, all of which were mistake free.

"That's probably better than we would do even in training," he said. Concluding his trek through Rota, the UNDERSECNAV pointed out that the efforts of the Rota Sailors do not go unnoticed.

"I think that Sailor's here are carrying out a fundamental and important role for us. You're basically forward deployed and in support of forward deployed forces," Hultin said. "America understands more and more of what you're doing and we're proud of you."

Hultin continued his tour of Europe, stopping to celebrate Thanksgiving with the Seabees in Kosovo.

MEDEVAC system is Y2K ready

Timothy Alonzo

Recently the Theater Patient Movement Requirements Center, (TPMRC), in Ramstein, Germany held an exercise to determine how well the Medical Evacuation, (MEDEVAC), system will operate in the event of a Y2K generated computer shut down. All computer dependent patient movement systems were effectively shut down and MEDEVAC patient movement was conducted through the use of DSN phone lines and FAX orders only.

Since Naval Hospital Rota has developed a solid computer "down time" procedure specifically designed to ensure continuity of patient movement in the event of computer shutdowns, the drill was a success. Because of continuous performance improvements, planning and foresight, Naval Hospital Rota was able to continue smooth patient movement operations as the exercise progressed. Additionally a Y2K Zero Day Strategy plan has been developed to facilitate a continuous MEDEVAC operation in the event of a mass computer shut down.

grams that worked and creates a total education system.

The goal is to create an environment designed to accommodate the varying academic needs of Sailors."

New features of the program will be introduced in three phases. During the first phase (Oct. 1 - Dec. 31, 1999), Sailors will notice new enhancements. On Oct. 1, Navy Campus offices were renamed Navy College Offices. Sailors can visit academic advisors at the offices for advice on which degree path to choose. Office facilities are being upgraded to meet Navy College Office standards and will be staffed with additional academic advisors.

To expand the availability of information on NCP and academic advice, a new Navy College Center in Pensacola, Fla., was established to provide Sailors easy access to information about the NCP. The center, manned by educational counselors seven days a week, 15 hours a day, is accessible through e-mail, a 1-800 number, DSN access and through the NCP web site. As of Nov. 17, the web site had logged more than 36,000 hits.

Also, beginning Oct. 1, every Sailor graduating from Boot Camp and evaluated "A" schools and "C" schools, are being given a summary transcript showing the American Council on Education's (ACE) recommendation for academic credit.

Phases two and three introduce the SMART transcript and SOCNAV agreements.

Check out next week's Coastline to find out more about the Navy College Program.

tinue on active duty. Upon Sailors' request, with commanding officers' concurrence, members will be allowed to extend in six-month increments to pass three official PRTs. Officers with three failures in a four-year period will not be promoted and/or augmented.

b. Commanding officers may extend to Oct. 1, 2000, Sailors picking up their third failure in FY-00, if the Sailor requests to remain on active duty.

c. There will be no required military bearing mark at time of first failure during career. Second failure will require a mark no higher than 3.0 for military bearing. Third failure in a four-year period will require a mark of 1.0 for military bearing and consequently promotion will not be recommended.

d. New, more challenging standards will be established for push-ups, sit-ups, and the 1.5-mile run/swim. Maximum body fat standards will be age-adjusted.

e. All age groups will now be tested. Members 50 and over, who were previously required to only participate in the body composition and mandatory weekly exercise, will now be required to pass entire PRT. Medical clearance will be required for all members over 50 who have no documentation of having passed PRT in past year.

Maintaining fitness and body fat standards requires commitment to a healthy lifestyle. Individual commitment to proper nutrition and physical fitness should be routine. Navy officials say the focus must move away from simply passing the semi-annual PRT to developing a fitness-based lifestyle. Individual and command commitment to physical fitness will result in enhanced operational effectiveness and increased vigor for each Sailor.

Radioman (RM) rating name change to Information Systems Technician (IT)

The Navy recently announced the name change of the Radioman (RM) rating to Information Systems Technician (IT). Acceleration of new technologies in tele-communications and information systems disciplines revealed the need for a new rating name that best reflects skills and roles of Sailors in this rating.

This name change is consistent with ongoing Navy efforts to properly man and train the rating to handle the changing environment of the information age. The new rating name also reflects Navy commitment to IT-21, information technology for the 21st century, and serves as an attractive recruiting tool for potential recruits interested in these specialized technical skills.

Captain G.K. Stair, Jr. COMNAVACT; Mrs. Marlan Snodgrass (Contracts Specialist with the Resident Officer In Charge of Construction (ROICC) Office); and Mr. Rich Johnston (Housing Director) cut the ribbon for the opening ceremony November 23.

Here it is, already December – it doesn't quite seem possible. Next week there are two important Spanish holidays: Constitution Day on the 6th and the Immaculate Conception on the 8th which marks the beginning of the Christmas season in Spain. Many people simply make a long, long week-end out of it. Five days in all - not bad. A lot of stores and malls will be open on the 8th, however.

On the 6th there is a piano concert at the Hotel Monasterio in Puerto de Santa María. Juan José Muñoz will be playing Chopin, Turina and Gershwin. It starts at 8 p.m. and entrance is only 900 pesetas. The concert hall in the hotel is lovely and makes the whole experience even more rewarding. Although they have fallen off these last few years, there used to be frequent concerts during the fall and winter. If you can, take advantage of it – it is sure to be enjoyable. For more information, to purchase or reserve your tickets, call the hotel at 956-540440, send an e-mail to monasterio@jale.com or stop by.

To help you get into the Christmas spirit, on the 7th you will have the chance to experience some typical Christmas music called a Zambomba at the Casino Bahía de Cádiz. Three different groups will perform starting at 11 p.m. Entrance is 1.500 pesetas and Christmas sweets and a glass of brandy or anisette are included in the price.

Due to popular demand, the Churasquería Brasileña, La Vaca Alegre, on the Puerto-Rota road, now opens every day at mid day from one to five as well as in the evening. It's becoming a real popular place.

Restaurante La Fondue in Cádiz is open again after vacation in November.

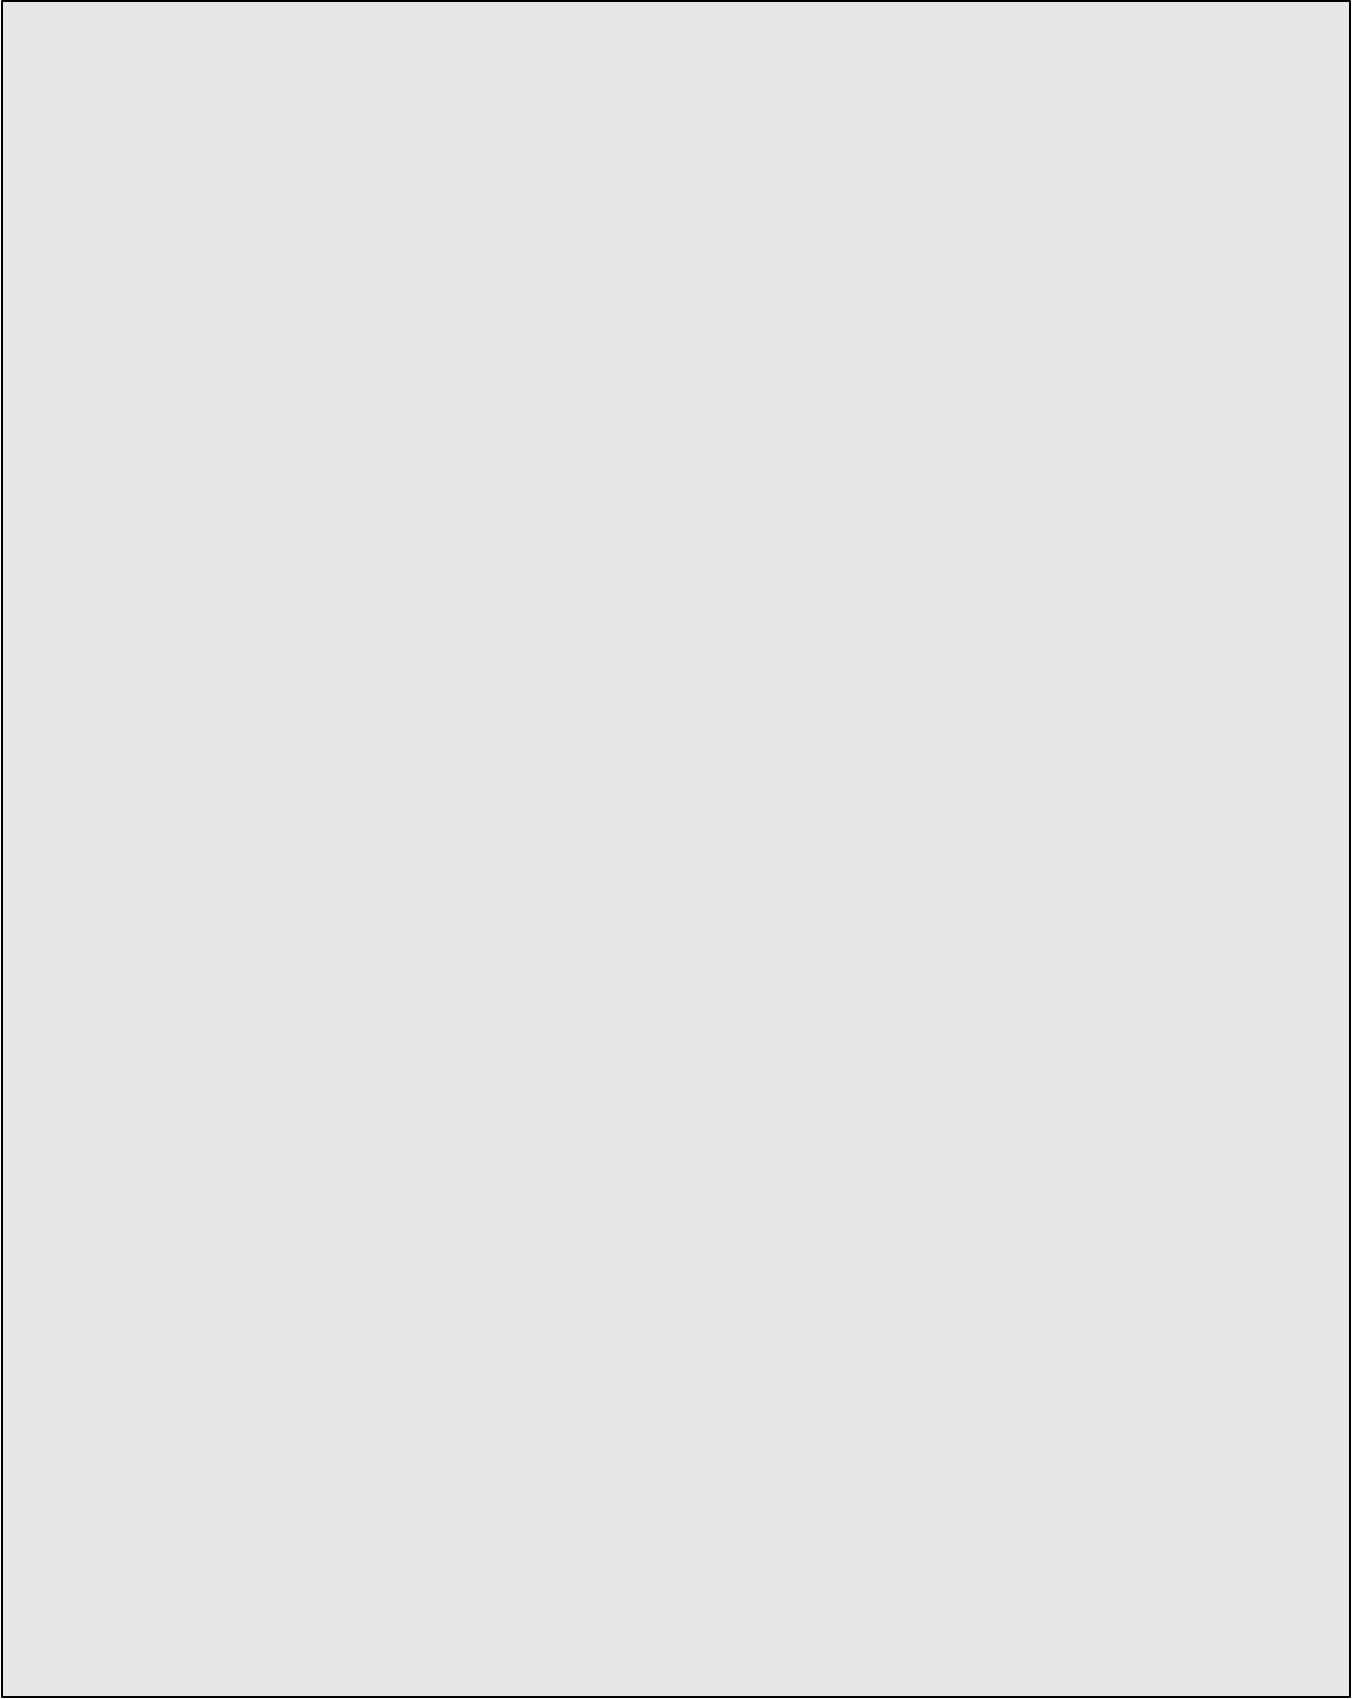

Mesón La Segoviana in San Fernando is advertising again. They are still located in the Castle and will be there for some time. The castle is due to be restored, but it looks like it will be a year or two before the construction work gets under way. We were back there a couple of weeks ago and came away as happy as the first time. If you want the best roast lamb or suckling pig available in the area, this is definitely the place to go. Other dishes offered are also excellent. It is truly a delight!

A couple of weeks ago I mentioned that Trinity School in Puerto will be offering 14 week evening Spanish courses starting in January. It is important for you to register now if at all possible. There are four different time slots and the price couldn't be better – only 21.000 pesetas for the entire 14 weeks. It is not necessary to pay for the course at this time, but it is advisable to get your name on the list. For more information, give them a call at 956-871926 or send an e-mail to trinity@spa.es

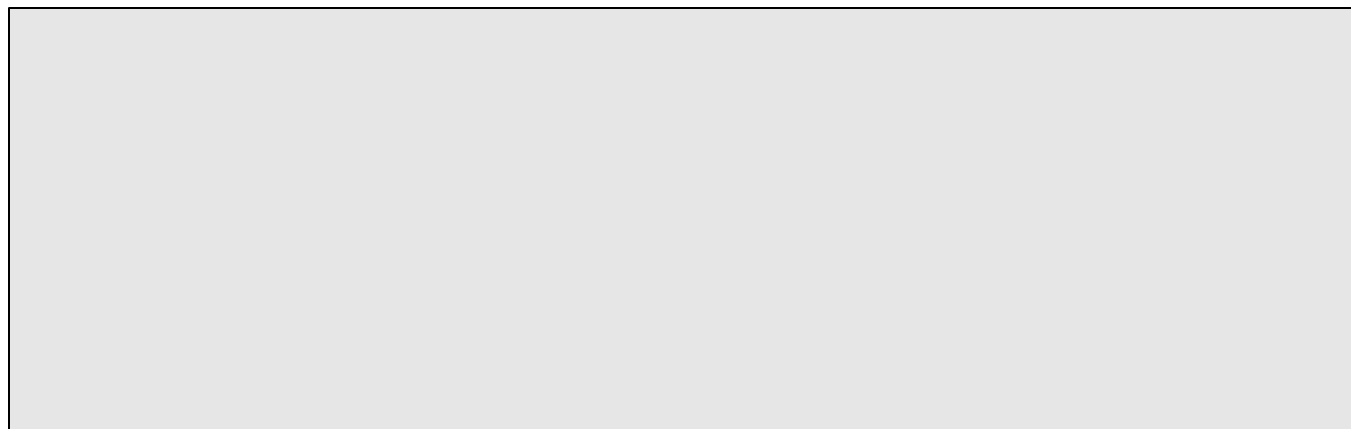

Let's hear from you! Send your inputs to me by fax to 956-542997 or by e-mail to COASTPUB@santandersupemet.com

Recycling works when all pitch in

UT1 Rey Sison

Trash, trash, and more trash! It is everyone's concern. As everybody knows, the landfill on base is permanently closed. We have currently 152 silver trash dumpsters for our regular office wastes, and 160 igloos and cardboard containers for recyclable items. We have a contractor that empties the containers on a regular basis and dumps the trash at a landfill located in Miramundo near the town of Medina Sidonia. Collected recyclable items are sold through DRMO.

NAVSTA spends approximately $60,000 per month for trash pick up and recycling services. One way to reduce our trash is through recycling. Recycling helped us reduce the number of silver trash dumpsters from 190 to 152. Recycling works! It is being environmentally responsible and is also the right thing to do. I encourage everyone to recycle. So how can you participate and help? Let's start with the basics.

Recycling

Glass, aluminum cans, paper, cardboard, and plastic are currently being collected. Due to an almost non-existent recycled plastic market off base, only HDPE 2 (colored plastic with "2" inside the recycling logo) is being collected for now.

We currently have 30 recycling collection points all over the base. Igloos are emptied every other week and cardboard containers every week. If the containers near your work center are full, please bring your recyclable items to another recycling point or to the Recycling Warehouse located behind MWR's Auto Junk Yard. It is open Monday to Friday from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 3 to 5:30 p.m., except Spanish holidays.

Flatten or break down cardboard boxes before putting them inside the cardboard recycle containers. This is currently one of our biggest problems at collection points. We don't have big cardboard containers, and boxes take up a lot of space when not flattened.

Make every effort to put all recyclable items inside the recycling containers. Items left outside present an eyesore. Let us keep the area around the igloos in order and clean. Recycling pick up for Las Flores residents is on Tuesdays. For Las Palmeras, it's on Mondays. No recycling pick-up is done on Spanish holidays. Pick up will be done the day after the Spanish holiday.

Each house should have at least two small recycling bins. If not, check out some at Housing Self Help. Wash glass bottles, colored plastic containers, and flatten boxes. Please put out your recyclable items no later than 8 a.m. on pick up days.

Trash Services

Trash pick up for Las Flores is on Tuesdays and Fridays. For Las Palmeras, it's on Mondays and Thursdays.

Bulky waste pick up, (wood, metal, branches, appliances, furniture, etc.)

at the Housing area is on Wednesdays. All bulky waste should be placed at the side of the road late Tuesday night or by 7 a.m. Wednesday. Do not put out bulk waste on any other day, as it can be a safety hazard for passer's-by and also for children.

Bulk waste and hazardous materials should not be placed inside regular silver trash dumpsters. All are marked "NO BULKY WASTE." The contractor will not pick up bulky waste whether inside the container or left outside. The customer at the industrial area should make every effort to dispose of their reusable bulk waste through DRMO. Flatten or break down all soiled cardboard boxes or non-recyclable plastic containers before disposal.

December 6 and 8 are local holidays. Pick up of recyclable items at Las Palmeras housing will be on Dec. 7, vice 6 Dec. The trash pick up schedule will remain the same. Also, bulk waste pick up at both housing areas is rescheduled for Dec. 9, vice Dec. 8.

Hospital Lab Y2K ready

Richard Hayden

The Laboratory Department at the U.S. Naval Hospital, Rota, Spain has an extensive amount of equipment which it utilizes to perform highly complex chemistry, hematological, microbiological and immunochemical analyses.

Much of the testing we perform here on a daily basis is accomplished with highly sophisticated "state of the art" analyzers, employing the latest methods available. Most equipment is "hooked up" to our Composite Health Care System (CHCS) which enables patient results to automatically be entered into the system at the touch of a keystroke. Most of our analyzers also contain microcomputers or boards, which assist in the proper functioning of the analyzers.

With this in mind, have we considered whether or not the pending arrival of "Y2K" will affect our capability to perform our job and release results in a timely, accurate, manner??? The answer to that is, "YES". The Navy Medical Logistics Command has been monitoring all laboratory equipment held at all Navy MTFs and has been providing regular updates as to our Y2K status. Additionally, locally, we have inventoried all of our assets, and have ensured that we have installed the latest hardware/software upgrades to comply with the requirements to ensure that we are "Y2K Compatible".

SUCCESSFUL TRAITS OF A MILITARY FAMILY
by Tracye Parker

Have you ever thought about what it really means to be dedicated, concerned, open-minded and determined? Give that question a little thought. It does not mean, "I'm here and I pitch in whenever help is needed." Nor does it mean just being there. How about, "I wash the dishes and take care of the kids?" No. That is not quite enough. Well, I make sure the car is serviced, pay the bills and help out around the house; does that fill the void? NOT! It involves much, much more than that. If you have ever thought about what it involves to keep a family grounded, then you possess some if not all of these characteristics. But to be a successful military family, it takes all those traits and many more. The every day growing pains of raising children and working are certainly enough to keep parents and their kids on their toes. When you add the stress of continuous PCS moves, deployments, culture shock, butano, narrow roads, Mediterranean cruises, and lack of jobs, you have a completely different picture.

Learning to call different countries "home" and being away from close family and friends takes the husband, wife and children pulling together. I mean really bonding. Venturing out and making the best of what appears to be a cloudy situation. Building up communities, networking, and developing opportunities. Military families organize communities by pulling together to create, improve, and maintain programs. Whether it is little league baseball or bazaars, the dedicated member of military families can only accomplish these tasks by juggling their many daily duties along with wearing many other hats. Being able to work jointly with various backgrounds is a strong attribute not found in all communities.

Can you imagine a military community without dedicated families working to educate and inform? Imagine what it would be like to be in an environment without the creativity and talent offered by service members who voluntarily give their time and services. Only strong, hard-working, and giving people like military families would truly understand the traits that we each possess and the character we hold so true in our hearts as we travel near and far to serve this country and help build up our communities. Only military members and their families really know what it means to uphold what we truly believe is necessary to make families a valuable resource. All of this encompasses what it takes to be a successful military family.

The greatest gift

Shopping for the perfect gift to give your children? I've got some good news! The best thing you can give your children doesn't cost a dime—but it will cost you time.

Every year about this time our kids pour through the Christmas catalogs and make their wish list for Santa. I don't blame them—when I was their age I did the same thing. The funny thing is that, with few exceptions, I can't remember those things that I just couldn't live without.

Many of them didn't outlast the Christmas holiday before they broke; others I outgrew or simply lost interest in.

I don't remember the gifts, but I do remember the giver. And what means more to me today than all the dollars and dimes my parents spent, are all the memories and times they invested in me and in our family.

The best gift you can give your children is your time. They will still look for presents under the tree, but when all those toys are broken and clothes outgrown, they will still treasure your love and the time you gave to them.

Gallagher wants in life is a bona fide Hollywood-style kiss. Mary sees the opportunity to make all her dreams come true, when a talent contest at her school is sponsored by a Catholic Teen magazine. The grand prize is a free trip to Hollywood and the chance to be an extra in a movie with positive moral values.

Mystery; Tommy Lee Jones, Ashley Judd (106 min.)

Thriller; Bruce Willis, Toni Collette, Olivia Williams, Haley Joel Osment (107 mins.)

8-year-old Cole is haunted by a dark secret: he is visited by ghosts. Cole is too young to understand his purpose and too terrified to tell anyone about his torment, except child psychologist Dr. Malcolm Crowe. As they try to uncover the ominous truth about Cole's abilities, the consequences for them both is a jolt that awakens them to something harrowing - and unexplainable.

Jakob the Liar (PG-13 - for violence and disturbing images)

Drama; Robin Williams, Alan Arkin (114 min.)

A poor Jewish café owner helps combat the overwhelming depression and suicide that pervades the ghetto by telling fictitious news bulletins about Allied advances against the Nazis. The Germans learn of the mythical radio and begin a search for the resistant hero.

Elmo in Grouchland (G - for general audiences)

Family; Mandy Patinkin, Vanessa L. Williams (77 min.)

The Insider (R - for language)

Drama; Al Pacino, Russell Crowe, Diane Venora, Rip Torn (158 min.)

DGF basketball hits the courts

As the 1999 basketball season begins, the Boys "Fighten Admirals" basketball team dreams of the Division III Championship. But before they can reach the summit of their dream, they face a long, 18 game regular season. Their challengers compose of Don Bosco, Chiclana, Iceland, and MWR.

After a successful 13-4 season during '98, the Rota Boys Basketball team lost Andre Hudson and Dan Gunther, two valuable players, to graduation. But when these two leaders left, the fighting spirit to strive and win stayed.

With Ralph McKensey, Andy Nowacki, and Ralph Page, three new players to varsity basketball, Senior and Captain Al Washington hopes to exploit their talents and show them the way to the championship.

"But becoming the Division III Champions is not the ultimate goal," stated Coach Anderson, "we as the coaching staff wish to teach these young athletes to become better citizens first, then better as a team, and finally, better as individual athletes."

Senior and Captain Al Washington has a great deal of responsibility placed upon his shoulders, and his main concern is to keep the team motivated. And the question of having a lack of motivation is a concern that is not to be worried upon.
